11. Dumb cow
12. School
13. False
14. False

15. The Tehsildar came to the village at the opening of the school. He asked Ramlal to send his daughter to the school to study as he was a government representative in the village. He told him that he would set an example by sending her daughter to school. It would encourage more villagers to send their daughter to school. So he had to show an example before the villagers.
16. Bholi refused to marry the person because he was much older than her and then she got him even asking for a dowry. So, refused to marry him.
17. Bholi first did not want to go to school along with her father because she did not know anything about school. When her father suddenly caught her hand, she got frightened. She thought she would also be sold as her old cow, Lakshmi was sold. But when she was bathed and was given a clean dress and her hair was oiled, she thought that she was going to a better place than her home. As no one took her care like that earlier.
18. Bholi found her school teacher to be different from her family members because she was a neglected child in her family and in school, the teacher gave her all love and attention which she wanted. She had a soft and soothing tone. She gave Bholi a lot of encouragement and inspiration which she was not getting from her family.
19. Bholi was definitely her teacher's masterpiece as she was not a simpleton anymore. She became the ideal human being. Now she could take her own decisions. She was capable to choose between right and wrong. Under her guidance, she overcame her handicap of stammering. She changed into a bold and confident girl. Now she had the courage to revolt against a social evil of dowry and refused to marry the greedy Bishamber Nath.
20. The phrase means Bholi's heart was overflowing with a new hope and a new life when she took a vow to serve her parents in their old age and to teach the students in the same school where she had learnt a lot.
21. Bholi's teacher was very encouraging and friendly to her and this made her gain the confidence to speak. She started seeing a ray of hope for a new life. After years of gaining an education and with the help of her teacher, Bholi turned into a confident girl. She no longer stammered and could speak properly. She even had the courage to refuse to marry the lame old man because he was greedy and asked money from her father to marry her. On seeing her father worried about her marriage, she said that he did not need to worry as she would teach in the same school where she learned so much and would take care of him and her mother in their old age. Thus, education and love from her teacher transformed Bholi.
