15. When Margie went to her school, which was right next to her bedroom. The mechanical teacher announced that it was going to teach addition of proper fractions and the mechanical teacher was flashing on the screen: "when we add fraction.....".
16. Margie and her mother were disappointed by her performance in Geography as Margie was not doing well in the test of Geography which had been given by Mechanical teacher. Therefore, a County Inspector was called and on inspecting he found that the Geography sector was geared a little too quick which he slowed down to the average ten-year level.
17. The geography part gave Margie too many tests which she could not pass at all.
18. Tommy found the book and it belonged to his grandfather's grandfather. The book had yellow and crinkly pages and the words were static unlike those moving on a screen. When they turned back to the pages they had read before, there were the same words on it when they read it the first time. All these things were strange for Margie.

19. Tommy refers to "a real book" as a waste. According to him after going through the book, it's of no importance and should be thrown away. No, it is not a waste because it's a printed one and will remain the same even after ages. Therefore it can be passed from generation to generation and even then it can be preserved.

20. Margie and Tommy had mechanical teachers. They were large and black and ugly and had large black screens on which all the lessons were shown and questions were asked. These mechanical teachers had a slot in which the students had to put their homework and test papers. They had to write their answers in a punch code and the mechanical teacher calculated the marks immediately. The mechanical teacher used to turn on daily except on Saturday and Sunday at the same time. It flashed the command and explanation on the display screen.
